"Oh yes, I remember it well!" will be exclaimed many times as the following pages are unfolded repeatedly in years to come.

Who can forget his or her first day of high school, her weekly sit-ups for losing the basketball game or his last-minute preparation for Friday speeches? It is also difficult to set aside the memory of football games, including the ones that were lost, the class plays which made you laugh, the classes, and especially the teachers and friends with whom you became acquainted in the 1961-1962 school term.

These and many other memories are enclosed in this yearbook.

The LATROBEAN

Foreword

Procedures Aid Scholars In Secondary School Activities

From September 6 to June 7, students have been entering and leaving the halls of Latrobe High School. Each had a premonition of the knowledge they would acquire.

Freshmen struggled with their first Latin conjugations. Many wished for a better seat in the auditorium. "My life through my eyes" was the thought of sophomores as they wrote their autobiographies for English II.

Chemistry opened a new field to juniors who often wondered if they would ever remember the chemical symbols. Many students spent countless hours concentrating on algebra and geometry problems. Seniors looked forward to May and June with great anticipation of the prom and commencement. Although much student attention went to the extracurricular activities of dramatics, forensics clubs and sports, the honor roll status was the prime goal of every student.

Freshmen and sophomores displayed their acting abilities in the All-Class play, while junior and senior thespians presented their class plays with much dramatic skill.

"Resolved: That the federal government should equalize educational opportunity by means of grants to the states for public elementary and secondary education," was the topic of the Ruth Robb Civic Club Debate. The contest was opened to the entire student body. Faculty members who acted as judges at the preliminaries chose the two opposing teams. Virginia Dovey and Russell Walker presented the affirmative point of view, while Thomas Haswell and Fred Fletcher composed the negative side.

Lee Ann Goodman received top prize in the senior oratorical contest. Approximately 32 students entered the extemporaneous competition. The various sports offered additional opportunities in participating in or supporting the home teams. Loud cheers as points were added gave evidence of the excitement of the students.

Looking back, students can remember countless happy and sad events that took place in their high school careers.

Contents

This yearbook is presented with the intention of giving the reader an account of the school year. With the assistance of illustrations and editorial coverage, the book was planned to tell the story of 1961-1962.

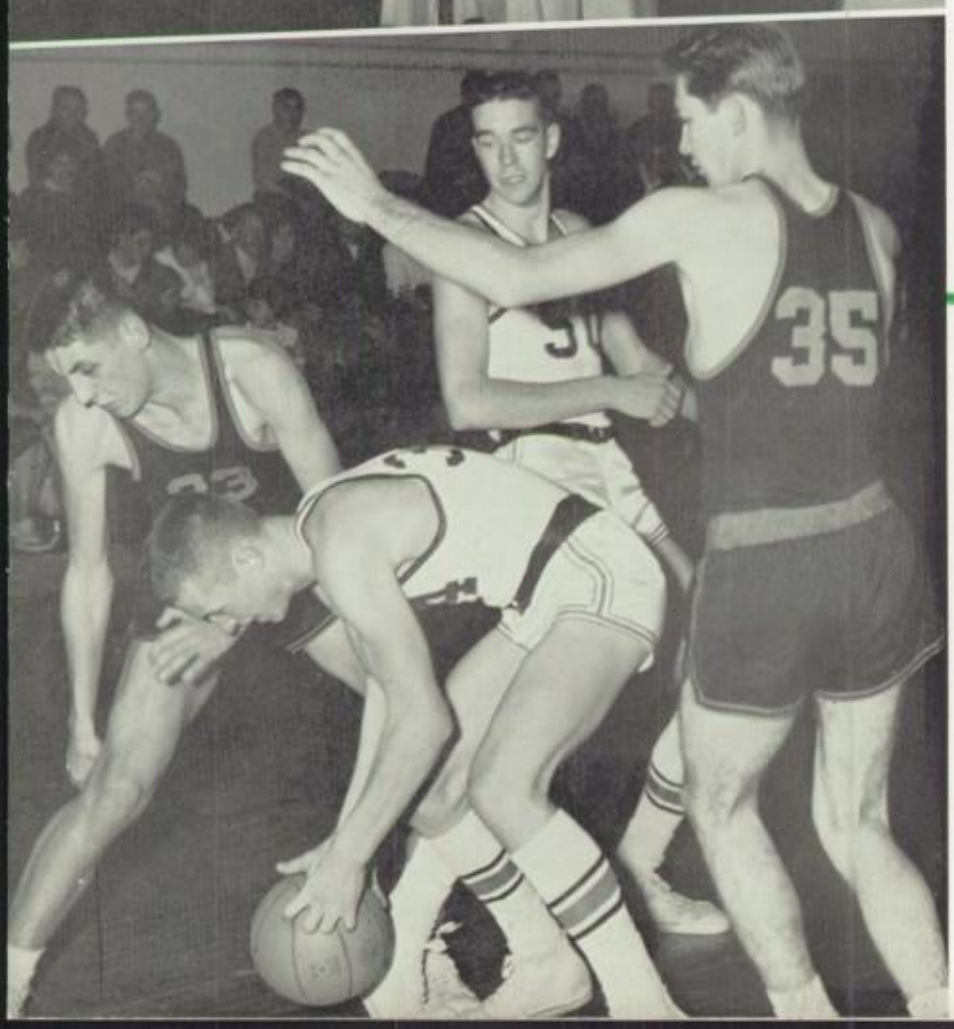
Education Offers Knowledge Reservoir

CLASSES

One aspect of school life which all members have in common is attending classes. Whether the student appreciated the benefit of any one class or not, he gained experience from it and from all. page 10

ACTIVITIES

Education should provide stimulus to the personality as well as to the mentality. As a means toward this end, each student had the opportunity to engage in some form of extra-curricular program. page 66



ATHLETICS

The acceptance of athletics into the program of school functions completed the educational system of LHS. Girls and boys who entered this field secured a greater store of experience to supplement their knowledge. page 94

Reflections

Glancing through this book, students can recall many fond memories of events of the past year at LHS that will remain with them in the years to come.

Three-minute talks in the halls between classes with many newly acquired friends provided pleasant breaks in the daily procedures. Last minute preparation of everyday homework assignments added to the rush and worry that prevailed throughout the classrooms.

Activities held outside of classes such as weekly assemblies, club meetings and athletic contests were main topics of discussion as pupils performed their daily duties. The dreaded ordeal of Friday English speeches added a touch of anxiety to the end of many busy weeks.

Prom night and the annual Sadie Hawkins are among the many highlights of the year that students can recall for the rest of their lives.

Classes

Upon entering high school, wide-eyed freshmen found themselves participating in activities, both scholastic and extra-curricular. Distinguishing themselves in sports, they went on to debates, extemporaneous speaking and forensic achievements.

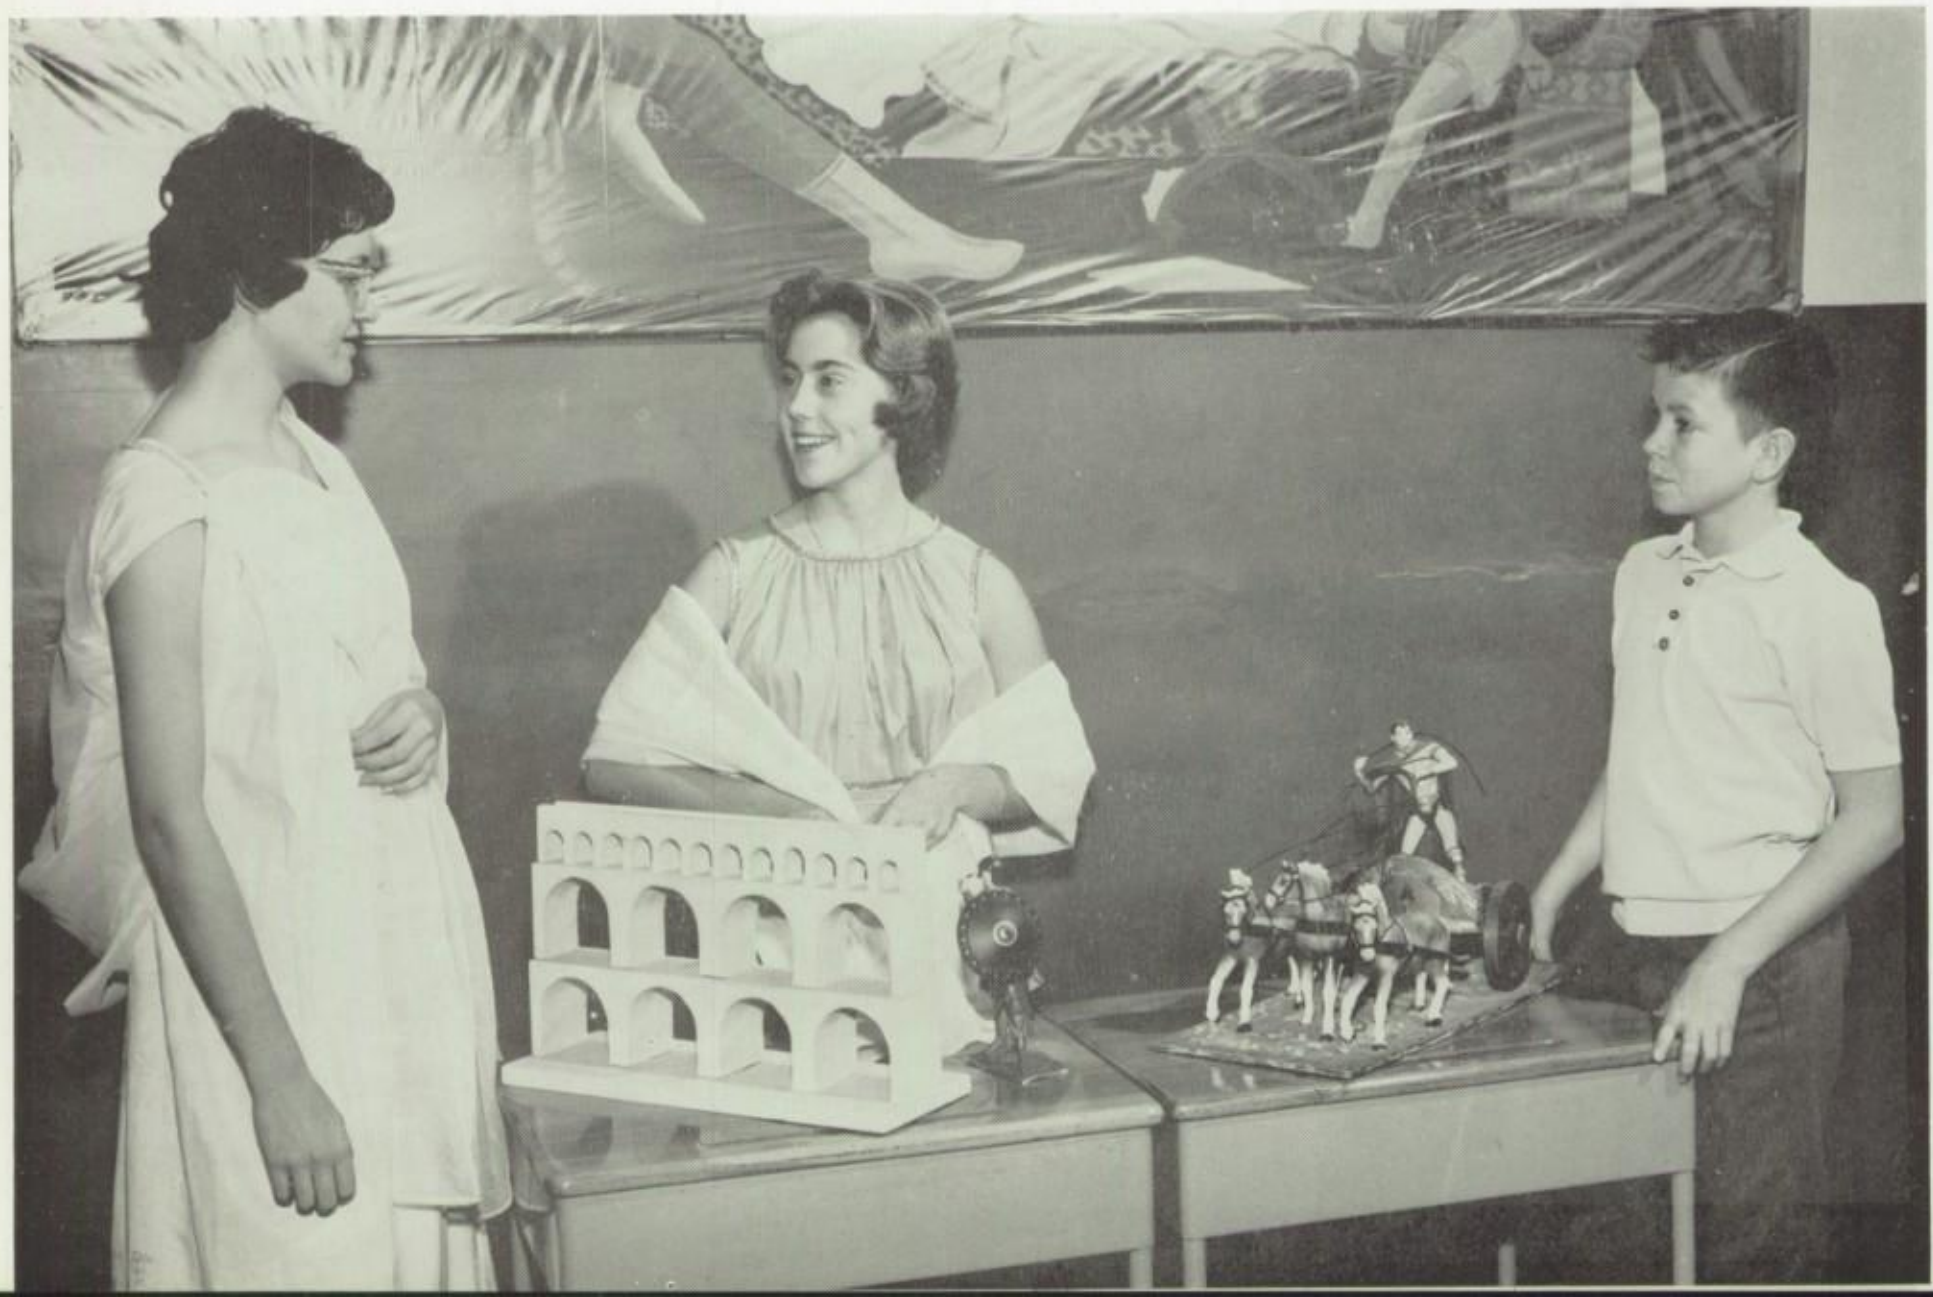
"What are you calling yours?" was a question asked among sophomores as the deadline for autobiographies drew near. Gay, young sophomores danced their way through talent assemblies, journeyed on field trips for the Biology Club and dressed in togas to depict ancient Roman life.

An annual event, the Junior-Senior prom, loomed in the future of eleventh graders as they enjoyed the rank of upperclassmen. Jolly juniors contributed to school life through service groups, sports and club activity.

As stately seniors march out to see their class flag wave over LHS, they reflect on the accomplishments of the past four years. Remembering commencement, Mardi Gras and the prom, the consensus is that these were indeed memorable years.

Education Instills Aspects of Leadership

LOUISE FRITZ enumerates the collection of projects and costumes in preparation for the Latin Festival Week for Virginia Dovey and Wayne Snedden.



UNDER THE guidance and watchful eye of Mr. Herbert Bilner, chemistry teacher, juniors engage in twice-a-week laboratory periods which prove educational and exciting in their first year in the advanced scientific fields.

CHANGING OF classes on the first day of school for the 1961-1962 semesters provides much anticipation to freshmen and sophomore members.

Success Remains Object Of Students In Classes

Administration

Through the efforts of Mr. David A. Snyder, the Latrobe schools again functioned as an effective instrument in the education of future leaders of America and the world.

As superintendent, Mr. Snyder approved innovation in teaching methods, sanctioned the purchase of necessary textbooks and inspected the school buildings. Supervision of the administrative staff was included among his responsibilities.

Members of the school board were Mr. Francis Harvey, Mr. Regis Kuhn, Dr. George Roberts, Mr. Jacob Bendl, Mr. George Lynch, Mr. Thomas Okonak and Mr. Donald Benford. Improvement of the curriculum, the equipment and the conditions of the schools are matters which concern the school board.

able administrator by students desiring references, by teachers concerned about assemblies for which they were responsible and by parents inquiring about the progress of their children.

Handling all disciplinary measures and satisfying the requests of the school board were other problems he met in his sinecure as principal of the nigh school.

Mr. William E. Yates, fulfilling his duties as assistant principal, checked daily attendance for state records, toured the building with visitors and directed the clerical work vital to the smooth operation of the high school.

Completing schedules and assisting the principal was Mrs. Betsy Tillman, while Mrs. Dorothy Ziegenfus worked in the attendance office typing reports and keeping permanent records in order.

Working in the administration building were Miss Grace Schrack, Miss Hedi McFeaters and Miss Ruth Himler. These women performed various secretarial duties as they efficiently served the school board during another year.

Through the efforts of these people, 1961-1962 was a successful and satisfying year for students, faculty and administration.

Faculty

Fifty classroom teachers comprised the faculty of the school that was dedicated to quality education.

English IV teacher Irene Mertz guided the writing and the delivery of orations by senior members of the CP courses. The three major dramatic productions of the year were directed by Harry Craig, eleventh grade English instructor.

Sophomore English classes engaged Patricia Findley's school hours. Mrs. Findley headed the scenery and props committee of the plays. English I, Guidance I, II were the subjects of Mary B. Tovo. She supervised the make-up committees of the class dramatic productions.

William R. Couchenour, adviser to the staff of the school publications, instructed Journalism I, II and junior English students. In addition to teaching English IV, Martha Osborne coached the pupils who participated in the Kiwanis Extemporaneous Speaking Contest.

Michael Rizzo taught freshman Guidance and English III, IV classes while track and cross-country coach William West taught sophomore English.

James Liddle, coach of the freshman Wildcat football team, taught tenth grade English. Louanne Love co-operated in a series of theme evaluation periods held in the library and conducted English II classes.

Lyda Hamilton instructed students in the basic rudiments and the advanced phases of Solid Geometry and Trigonometry. Algebra II teacher Mary Louise McBride was adviser to Broadcasting I, II and the mathematical organization, Mu Alpha Theta.

General Math and Algebra I were the subjects of William Franks, chairman of the Freshman dance. In addition to teaching Business Math, Algebra I and General Arithmetic, Robert Shumaker coached the junior varsity football team.

guided students in this course through the problems and struggles concerning the history of our country. Joining the faculty this year was Mr. Lee Henderson. A graduate of Lycoming College, he taught American and Pennsylvania History.

Discussing principles employed in prehistoric and medieval times was Mr. Wiley Hartman, who taught World History. He also acted as cheerleader adviser. Mrs. Eleanor Gadd, adviser for the Ruth Robb debates, emphasized in her World Culture classes the importance of ancient peoples, their governments and customs.

Explaining the governmental systems of the state and the fundamentals of Commercial Math was Mr. Ray Wild, freshman basketball coach. Mr. Creed Westfall, familiarized freshman students with the runnings of our state and local governments in his Civics classes, and he coached the varsity, junior varsity wrestling squads.

Physics was explained to students desiring information in this complicated phase of science by Miss Catherine Netzlof, sponsor of the Usher's Club. Junior class adviser Mr. Harold Bitner, instilled chemistry facts into the minds of Latrobe High pupils.

Miss Virginia Daniels contributed to the Science Department by teaching biology. In addition to her role as Sophomore Class adviser, she undertook sponsorship of the Biology Club. Teaching Biology Aiding students in gaining comprehension of General Science was Mr. Harry Graham. Fulfilling the role of assistant football coach, Mr. Richard Headrick also instructed ninth graders in the field of general science.

Teachers of the Commercial Department attempted to train their students in the protocol of the business world and in regular office procedure.

Florence Gill instructed Typing I and Shorthand I pupils. She was Commercial Club adviser and was in charge of office practice. Sales, Business Math, Business Training and Junior Business Training headed the curriculum of Mitchell Barron. Educating students in geography, Commercial Law and sponsoring the activities of the cheerleaders were the functions of Nancy Elder.

Shorthand II, Typing I, II and arithmetic were the commercial subjects which engaged the teaching hours of Blanche Quick. Robert Cook, coach of the golf team and director of the Dixieland Band, taught both Commercial and General Bookkeeping I, II.

Students enrolled in the Home-Economics course received training in cooking, sewing and domestic relations—all necessities for good housekeeping. Instructing the clothing class of junior and senior enrollees in the course was Miss Mary Ann Fury, who also directed the annual Fashion Show.

Heading the Homemaking Department was Mrs. Katherine Stumbaugh. She assumed the teaching of Related Arts and Homemaking IV classes. Miss Grace Kettering supervised the procedures of the cooking classes and conducted the annual Flower Show and Senior Tea.

Medical Administration Donates Time, Effort To Protect Physical Health Of Students

MRS. JACQUELINE Shivetts, Doctors Paul Mankovich, J. Wiley Hartman and John Parker debate articles in a medical journal with Doctor G. F. Nealon.

Striving to protect and safeguard the health of the student body, the medical staff, composed of nine doctors and one nurse, administered physical examinations during the year.

Dr. J. Wiley Hartman, assisted by Dr. Gerald Huber, Dr. F. Clay Gibson, Dr. G. F. Nealon, Dr. Walter Berberich, Dr. Paul Mankovich, Dr. Raymond Sarver, Dr. John Mazero, Dr. John Parker and Dr. Thomas Sproch, headed the Medical Department. Supervising the dental examinations for the year was Dr. M. A. Showalter.

Juniors and freshmen received their physicals during the first quarter at the School Clinic in Second Ward School. Mrs. Florence Young, the nurse for Latrobe schools, aided the doctors and organized the schedule for the students' check-ups.

Parents were informed of any physical defects by slips sent to them by the examining doctors and Mrs. Young. Students were advised to consult their family physicians concerning any impairments. The primary reason for the annual examinations was to make parents and the students aware of the presence of any physical defects.

The check-ups included examination of the chest, heart, feet and blood pressure by the doctors. Mrs. Young administered eye tests and used the audiometer for checking the ears.

Eight girls, under the supervision of Mrs. Young, attended the management of the health room during the year. The function of this convenience is to aid students who become ill during the school day.

Girls in charge of the health room during the morning sessions were Jean Melago, Marcia Vesco, Joan Forejt and Sandra Donahey. Serving in the capacity of attendants in the afternoon were Joyce Pavick, Judy Byers, Joann Lencoski and Mary Ann Stepanic. The majority of these girls are considering entrance into the field of nursing and thus received valuable information to aid them in their future occupations.

The eight girls were not allowed to administer internal medication to pupils. Bandaging abrasions, tending to bruises, treatment of mild burns and other inflammations and making ill students as comfortable as possible were some of the daily tasks performed by the novice medical aspirants.

Mrs. Florence Young's duties included the assistance of school physicians and aiding the health room attendants in the detection and effective treatment of contagious rashes, chronic rashes, and other minor infirmities possessed by high school students. She performed services for the elementary schools as well. Health room attendants received information pertaining to medical care from her. Aiding in the chest X-rays for the Latrobe public schools was also under the supervision of Mrs. Young.

Mrs. Young organized the schedule for the students' physicals. Assistant Principal William Yates supervised the sending of the pupils to the clinic.

Mrs. Young stated, "The health of the school child does not only depend on the school medical department but combines the efforts of the parent, the teacher and the people of the community.

"The school children in Latrobe are fortunate in having so many interested, capable citizens who have always co-operated fully with the school health department and have helped to make the entire environment of the child safer and healthier."

Pupils Strive Hard To Procure Valuable Knowledge By Faculty Instructions In Classes

Selecting the curriculum suited to their future vocations upon graduation was the primary objective of students as they embarked on four years of earnest educational endeavor.

Six fields of study were available. Correct choices provided them with the needed subjects and skills in preparation for their chosen careers. Students could obtain help in making decisions from the guidance director and school administration.

Social studies ranked as an essential part of the six courses. In English classes pupils delivered talks every week about varied topics. Highlighting senior activities in the department were the orations. Students with speaking and writing abilities entered other forensic contests in conjunction with their English classes. Grammar, vocabulary and composition writing were also taught. Reading such classics as the "Odyssey", "Julius Caesar", "Silas Marner" and "Great Short Stories" occupied much of the class' time.

Seniors studied diligently Problems of Democracy to learn more about the policies and government of the United States. Juniors' study of American History included the Constitution and discussions of past and present great events. Sophomores explored the ancient and modern history of the world. Learning the background and some geography of Pennsylvania proved helpful to the freshmen. Book reports, maps and other projects were required to maintain high grades.

College Preparatory courses offered the college-bound student the best opportunity to prepare for higher education. Beginning with Algebra, the students ventured into Plane Geometry, Solid Geometry and Trigonometry.

In science courses students became acquainted with basic points of more complicated fields. Laboratory experiments in Chemistry and Physics proved enlightening to the class members. Biology students were amazed to find under the microscope organisms that they did not realize existed.

Other students entered the field of foreign languages. Freshmen and sophomores studied the ancient language of the Romans and their culture. Upperclassmen engaged in the study of modern languages, French and Spanish. In these subjects, teachers used visual aids. After taping voices, surprised students heard what they actually sounded like. They also viewed movies about the people whose dialect they were learning to speak.

Enrollees in the Commercial Course began by learning the fundamentals of secretarial and business work. They strived to maintain a high speed in taking shorthand dictations and in typing correctly. They also studied Bookkeeping, Salesmanship and Office Procedures. This branch of study helped the students to obtain proper training for clerical and stenographic occupations.

The general course offered subjects to the student who was uncertain of his work after graduation. Many electives were available to him.

To the hum and whirr of the sewing machines in the Cottage, students enrolled in the Homemaking Course learned the fundamental elements of both sewing and cooking. The annual fashion show highlighted the year's activities while other displays of this type provided a means for the girls to exhibit their work. Planning meals, table manners and the correct usage of foods were the basis of study for those students completing the semester in cooking classes.

A common sight to boys in vocational training was a wandering spark from a machine. All students enrolled in the trade course completed two years of general shop. During the remaining four semesters, each student worked in one of four specialized fields.

Wood, machine, electric and drafting comprised the specific training shops. The woodworker made such projects as bookcases, end tables, coffee tables and desks. Instructed in the proper use of such equipment as shapers, tools, cutters, grinders and saws were the students choosing machine shop. Through this training students gained experience enabling them to fultill many odd jobs around the school. Armatures, milling machines, blueprinting machines and electric saws aided the members preparing for jobs as members of industrial crews.

The local Kiwanis Club sponsored a competitive contest to arouse more interest in the field in which projects submitted by students were prepared in the shop classes. The industrial course provided a foundation for future employment as efficient workers in numerous types ot careers.

Although the projects of the shops were often too large to be displayed, many awards were won by trade members for outstanding work done in their particular field. In many instances, boys in the shop classes produced fine products as automobile accessories and different types of motors. The valuable experience gained through their study will greatly benefit each pupil after graduation.

In addition to regular studies many students pursued extra-curricular activities. Journalism and broadcasting classes provided fellow classmates with school news. Chorus, art, orchestra and band gave members a chance to demonstrate their talents and creativity.

The homemaking classes and related arts students, in conjunction with regular classroom activities, displayed clothing ensembles with matching accessories several times during the year. The trophy cases were used as means for displaying the many projects of the students in each class.

Latin, Spanish and French students constructed projects such as Roman dolls, oil paintings, scrapbooks and drawing collections. In addition to regular assignments, when students completed extra-curricular work, it merited a place in the trophy case.

Regular Wednesday and Friday assemblies provided a source of entertainment to the student body during the year. Taking place in each quarter was the honor roll assembly conducted by Mr. Crawford. In October the annual talent assembly was sponsored by Mr. Robert Cook. Acts were judged and the winning one accompanied the dance band on several occasions. Initiating the Christmas vacation was the annual Christmas play entitled, "The Birds' Christmas Carol."

For those students interested in and possessing an aptitude for science, the Science Seminar was conducted. Speakers instructed students in the many aspects of the rapidly growing field.

Knowledge, Challenges, Experiences, Criticism Prepare Graduates For Tomorrow

For the class of 1962, the last year at Latrobe High drew to a close. Entering in 1959 as unstable freshmen, they now emerge in 1962 as competent seniors—the result of four years of fine education.

Two boys and three girls were elected to guide the seniors as they strived to carry out their motto, "Determination Yields Success." They were Thomas Baybrook, president; Howard Baybrook, vice-president; Ellen Hamill, secretary; Joanne Guskiewicz, treasurer, and Lynne Dibert, Student Council representative.

During the last four years, each member of the graduating class developed his abilities and utilized them to the benefit of himself and the school. They made these contributions in all phases of school life as leaders in scholastic endeavors.

The Dramatics Department profited by the endeavors of this class as they assumed leading roles in the All-Class play, "The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis." The cast of the Senior Class play and the Problems of Democracy Christmas play were composed entirely of seniors. On Moving-Up Day they enacted a humorous skit, their last theatrical presentation.

They displayed ability in public speaking during the annual forensics contests. Seniors won awards in the Kiwanis Club Extemporaneous Speaking Contest, the senior orations and the Ruth Robb debates.

In the sports field, all students had an opportunity to participate. For their athletic accomplishments, boys received letters in track, cross-country, tennis and golf and in varsity football, basketball and wrestling. The girls also did their part by participating in intramural basketball and volleyball. Leading the fans at all the varsity athletic events were four senior cheerleaders with the help of the Wildcat, a senior boy.

Musically minded students were active in the various choral and instrumental groups included in the Music Department. Boys' Chorus II, Girls' Chorus II and the Mixed Chorus had many fourth-year students. The Double Octet with its senior members performed during the opening exercises of the assemblies, while the orchestra and band profited by the instrumental talents of the twelfth grades. The high-stepping majorettes, six of whom were seniors, led the band during the half-time activities at the football games.

Seniors will always recall the pleasant hours spent at the school dances this year. The annual Sadie Hawkins Dance was a success with its large representation from the Senior Class. Matching shirts were the rule at this traditional girl-ask-boy event. Providing a sharp contrast was the Junior-Senior prom where the seniors were the guests of the juniors. At this affair and at the post-prom party, the students, dressed in formal attire, danced till the sun rose.

Most important to the graduating students were their studies which prepared them for the future. In English classes they were versed in communicating their ideas with others. Their math teachers taught them quantitative thinking and showed them how to multiply their talents, while science courses broadened their concepts and made the seniors openly aware of the world around them.

Noting the number of seniors who appeared on the honor roll and high honor roll, their achievement in these classes becomes evident. Those who qualified were initiated into the three honorary groups, the Quill and Scroll, the Mu Alpha Theta and the National Honor Society. Numerous scholarships were also awarded to deserving students.

Reflecting upon their final days at Latrobe High, they recall the exchanging of senior pictures, ordering namecards, receiving class rings and being measured for caps and gowns for graduation. These diminutive things, reserved only for seniors, grew into lasting memories for the graduating class.

Finally, as commencement ends their high school careers, the Class of 1962 awaits the opportunities which the wide world has held for them. These four short years are gone; they cherish the past and look to the future.

DORCAS SHICK explains the pack strap carry to Sandra Nicely during the first-aid course in senior health class.

EILEEN CIAFRE, Anthony Revitsky and Cheryl Cribbs recall high school experiences with a key and eye toward the future.

Latrobe High School had the experience this year of having two foreign students seek their education in its classrooms. In October, 1961, Emel and Necip Alev traveled with their family from Ankara, Turkey, to make their new home here.

One difference between the educational systems is the work load. In Turkey it is not compulsory to attend high school unless a college education is desired. However, all students who choose this form of education, as Necip and Emel did, are required to take the same subjects. These 15 include several science courses, history, geography, a military class for both boys and girls, mathematics, foreign languages and the arts.

Testing methods also are unlike those in America. After the first three years of high school are completed, an oral and a written examination are given to each student. If they pass these, they advance to the Lycee to finish their schooling.

When asked what impressed him most about the United States, Necip replied, "I like the freedom of opinions. Also, the pupils are very nice and understanding of my position. The teachers are perfect teachers. They are very understanding and willing to help."

The students have welcomed the Alevs into the school and the community.

SENIOR CANDIDS

PRINCIPAL ROBERT Crawford presents letters of commendation from the National Merit Scholarship Corporation to Sandra Baumann and Elizabeth Gordon.

Education is a key which unlocks many doors. During the last four years at Latrobe High School, the Class of 1962 has used this key to open the doors to their future life after graduation.

For those planning to gain further knowledge after commencement, the CPA and CPC courses offered the necessary subjects for college entrance, while trade and homemaking courses have opened the doors for those with attention focused on vocational pursuits. Similar opportunities were afforded to students through the general and commercial courses.

The click-clickety clack of typewriter keys could be heard as students prepared for clerical or secretarial positions, and in the woodshop the whirr of machinery may have meant that a trade student was in the process of completing a pair of tables. Senior homemaking girls employed other machinery and devices as their key as they completed their orientation into the domestic arts.

Passing a physics or chemistry class, one could find many seniors hard at work. For those interested in modern languages, it is possible that the pronunciation of a difficult French or Spanish verb was the key they were seeking. Others studied Salesmanship, Office Practice, Commercial Geography and Commercial Law.

All twelfth graders utilized the Problems of Democracy classes to learn the principles upon which their government is based. In English IV they found the most valuable key of all—the key to communication. This was achieved through the study of vocabulary and the literary classics and the preparation of research themes.

The key has been made available for those who were willing to accept the challenge it presents.

SENIOR LETTERMEN Larry Messich, Gerard Murphy and Thomas Hauger take advantage of a free period to sew.

THOMAS BAYBROOK
Leadership

Members of the Senior Class voted their most prominent classmates to receive recognition for attaining the goals of the student body. Through their school year these elected scholars led their fellow students in good citizenship.

Thomas Baybrook distinguished himself in leadership by serving as the Senior Class president. He participated in the Mu Alpha Theta, Broadcasting I, II and attended the science recognition dinner. Twin brother Howard Baybrook achieved honor as a recipient of the Harvard Book Award, Senior Class vice-president and the High Post sports editor.

A member of the National Honor Society, Dianne DeFlavio was elected by the student body as the most outstanding commercial student. From her prominent record of journalistic qualities, Kathy Kuhns was elected as the most remarkable pupil in journalism. Kathy served as the Latrobean editor, president of the Commercial Club and as a member of the Quill and Scroll.

Lee Ann Goodman, a declamations finalist and winner of the Rotary Oratorical Contest, received recognition in the field of forensics. She was also Quill and Scroll secretary and High Post feature-page editor. Dramatics winner Pamela Eslyn was engaged in two All-Class plays, a Moving-up Day assembly and Veteran's Day assembly and served as student director of the Junior Class play.

Musical talent was the outstanding trait of Joanne Rose. She served as orchestra president, member of district chorus, girls' barbershop quartet and Mixed Chorus. Excelling in athletics was Gerard Murphy. By serving as football co-captain, member of the All-State Second Team, wrestling co-captain, county champion in wrestling and as the R. V. Wild Award recipient, he won his laurels.

Louis Sartoris represented his fellow classmates in the industrial class. He participated in several trade contests. Kaye Bolby claimed honors in the homemaking field by winning the Reed's Award, Lowenstein Award and prizes in the Flower Show.

Juniors

JUNIOR CLASS officers Carol Poole, Lorraine Rosa, Barbara Kisick and John Pawlosky listen with eagerness to Raymond Mt. Joy as he submits preliminary plans to them for the confirmation of prom decorations as the annual event approaches.

Aptitude Plus Ambition Equals Accomplishment In Many Fields For Junior Class

CLIFFORD EVANS and Robert Katana quiz Mary Lou Atkinson and Bonita Brown in American History class on state capitals.

After another year of fruitful endeavor, juniors prepare to assume roles as next year's senior leaders while reminiscing over their past years of high school.

Elected president early in the year, John Pawlosky directed the affairs of the class. Both academic and extra-curricular activities captivated the interest of juniors throughout the school year.

Proving helpful to eleventh graders studying linguistics were Modern Language Club and Senior Classical League. Those students possessing a flair for music performed in the band, orchestra, choruses and assembly choir.

Sports involved a vital part in the juniors' activities. The boys showed athletic prowess in aiding the high school to victory in many interscholastic sporting events. Intramural basketball and volleyball occupied athletically-minded girls. Those who did not participate in these competitions were enthusiastic spectators.

The highlight of the year was the Junior-Senior prom that the juniors planned for the seniors. Heading the preparation was the main duty of class officers, Barbara Kisick, vice president; Lorraine Rosa, secretary; Raymond Mt. Joy, treasurer, and Carol Poole, Student Council representative. Mr. Harold Bitner fulfilled the responsibilities of class adviser.

Eleventh graders worthy in their particular field, gained admission into the National Honor Society, Quill and Scroll and Mu Alpha Theta.

Memorable to all juniors was the presentation of the key to the Junior Class president on Moving-Up Day, causing them to look nostalgically on their previous high school years. They prepared to assume the responsibilities the senior year requires.

Members Prepare For Upperclassmen Role As Tenth Graders Gain Knowledge

MARGARET HAMILL and William Horner comment on the structure and frame of the human body as exhibited by the skeleton.

Having concluded two years of its secondary education, the graduating class of 1964 anticipates the fulfillment of the many upperclass duties.

Through the class's work in forensics, assemblies and many extra-curricular organiaztions, the students practiced the diligence essential for the future leadership of the student body.

At the beginning of the year, the 343 sophomores elected Jon Erney to direct the class. He was assisted by fellow-classmembers Robert Atkinson, vice-president; Donna Calabrace, treasurer; Judith Givens, secretary, and Harold Stover, Student Council representative.

Their participation in debates, the Kiwanis Extemporaneous Speaking Contest and the annual Spelling Bee indicated their ambition and competitive spirit. The comparatively large percentage of the class included in the honor and high honor rolls, not to mention the perfect attendances, was indicative of the high scholastic ability of the class as a whole.

Julius Caesar, Sidney Carton, George Washington Carver and Lucy Manette are some of the characters with whom the sophomores became acquainted through the English classes.

Adjustments of a microscope, disection of an animal and recognition of various types of birds were several techniques that challenged the biology students.

Sophomores revealed their acting abilities in the All-Class play, "The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis." Vocal talent increased during sessions of Girls' Chorus II and Mixed Chorus while many attained membership in the band and orchestra.

The class possessed more than scholastic abilities. Boys took part in all the sports, while the girls displayed their sportsmanship in intramural basketball and volleyball.

Freshmen Meet New Challenges, Opportunities In First Year of Higher Education

"Well, I never thought I'd make it," exclaimed the freshmen upon reaching the conclusion of their initial year of high school. The class of 1965 will reminisce the occurrences of those momentous days when classes commenced.

Some 441 freshmen crowded the building in early September when they selected officers to lead them during their initial year. Delegated to head the class were Richard Smith, president; Thomas Williams, vice-president; Alberta Ferrarini, secretary; Suzanne Johnson, treasurer, and Donna Biller, Student Council representative. Mr. William Franks acted as adviser to the students.

Offering to the pupils an opportunity to become acquainted with one another, the freshman dance was sponsored in September. They composed membership in the band, orchestra and Boys' and Girls' choruses.

Theatrically inclined students demonstrated their acting skill by portraying roles in the All-Class play. The ninth graders also took part in debates and the extemporaneous speaking contest.

The Guidance Department conducted a program of instruction for ninth graders. Its purpose was to inform students of all the aspects of the curriculum offered in the school and to help them meet the advanced requirements characteristic of a high school.

All freshmen became acquainted with General Science, Pennsylvania History, health, gym and English I. Those planning to enter college learned the fundamental principles of Algebra I and Latin I. Future secretaries from the Commercial course studied introductory Shorthand, Commercial Arithmetic and Junior Business Training. Homemaking girls were introduced to cooking and sewing while trade students experimented in the shops.

With their first crucial year behind them, the freshmen looked forward to three more years of pleasure, hard work, activities, sports and friendship.

Activities

"All work and no play" was not the motto for Latrobe High students as the 1961-1962 school year commenced. The curriculum offered fun and entertainment as well as the acquiring of knowledge to the students participating in the extra-curricular activities presented by various clubs and organizations throughout the school.

The task of building well rounded personalities, as well as developing deeper interests in their field of endeavor, was the goal of many service groups functioning with the school. The JCL, the Modern Language Club, the SCL, the Biology Club and the Commercial Club provided a means for students to delve into special fields of study. Publications, music, forensics and dramatics enrolled students to display their talents in varied fields.

Members of the Student Council placed high ranking ideas into existence, while those holding memberships in the safety and fire patrol rendered services to safeguard the school and its inhabitants.

ENDEAVORING TO impress the fundamentals of good sports writing is the aim of editors Howard Baybrook and Patrick Doherty.

Constantly striving to beat the deadlines, obtaining the exact word counts and employing the correct uses of the five "w's" were the members of the Journalism II staff. Obtaining information, producing a well constructed lead paragraph and writing and rewriting copy were justified in seeing the story in print.

Students obtaining membership to this organization attempted to acquaint fellow students with school, athletic and local news. Members of the yearbook staff provided a means to recall fond memories of their high-school days.

Rules of style and journalistic standards were taught by Mr. William R. Couchenour, adviser of publications. Conducting the Journalism I class, whose primary purpose is to educate prospective writers in the numerous phases of writing, was another of his duties.

Participants in this preparatory class were taught effective ways of presenting news to the reader, the essential rules of style and methods of gathering news. Stories produced by members of the Journalism I class appeared in the High Post.

During the year both the annual and school paper received honors in scholastic competition. High ratings from Columbia Press Association, National Scholastic Press Association and the Pennsylvania School Press Association were presented to the publications.

Linda Kennedy assumed the duties of editor of the High Post while, throughout the year, Kathleen Kuhns, Latrobean editor, prepared for its distribution on the last day of school.

Thespians Provide Entertainment For Fellow Students While Enacting Class Plays

GENE PAULL, Virginia Dovey, Richard Dailey and Lynne Dibert are amused as Julie Nicolazzo demonstrates her modern Lithuanian band-conducting techniques.

From the first rehearsal to curtain call, many Latrobe High thespians never will forget the thrill of their first dramatic attempt performing before a live audience.

The All Class play permitted enthusiastic members from the four classes to participate. Entitled "The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis," the comedy involved the adventures of a school advertising manager who has to devise a method of earning money. It was decided to hold a dance. The many complications arising added comedy.

Main characters included Dobie Gillis, Richard Dailey; Bonnie Willet, Lynne Dibert; Helen Dixon, Helen Van Norden; Petey Bellows, David Downs; Mr. Pipgrass, Gene Paull; Imogene Klugenfelter, Virginia Dovey; Mrs. Dixon, Margaret Shrum; Mr. Dixon, Michael Rizzo; Mr. Harrington, John Demyanovich; Stella, Julie Nicolazzo; Miss Forepaugh, Patricia Clarke; Frannie, Toni Koleski; Miss Neuman, Suzanne Oeschger; Limbo Lamb, Pamela Eslyn; Adele, Judith Campbell, and Mr. Gillis, Bruce Immel. Jointly responsible for the production of the play were Kathleen Kuhns, Ronald Diss and Jack Moberg, student directors.

A teenage girl separated from her "steady" because of parental disapproval and how she schemes to overcome this was the plot of the Junior Class play. Fifteen eleventh graders assumed roles in the three-act comedy. They were Maudie Mason, Helen Van Norden; Davey Dillon, Thomas Cirucci; Mr. Mason, Gene Paull; Mrs. Mason, Myra Lynch; Sylvia, Karen Juhasz; Lynn, Lynn Vechter; Mr. Endicott, Thomas Hinger; Sandy, Diane Dunhoff; Marge, Virginia Thomas; Bev, Marsha Fiorini; Jerry, Virginia Pollins; Pat, Barbara Kisick; First Lifeguard, Robert Katana, and Second Lifeguard, Gary Lenz. Julie Nicolazzo and Mary Ann Nolf rendered their services as student directors.

PAMELA ESLYN rehearses her lines with fellow cast members Helen Van Norden, David Downs and Bruce Immel in preparation for the All Class play.

"GRAB YOUR partner and birdie in the cage," yell Thomas Myers and Nancy Campbell, square dance callers, to Kenneth Stahl and Margaret Shrum.

Diligent Rehearsals Ensure Creative Night During Major Production Characterization

Members of the Senior Class Play made their final endeavor in dramatics with the production of "Tammy, Tell Me True." Jean Cooper and Connie Ashley acted as student directors to 30 players.

Major parts were enacted by Nancy Campbell, Tammy Tyree; John Demyanovich, Pete Brent; Kenneth Stahl, Grampa; Thomas Myers, Joey; Pamela Eslyn, Rita; Patricia Clarke, Miss Jenks; Mary Lou Morley, Sandra; Joseph Sartoris, Professor Everett, and Michael Rizzo, Professor Freeman.

Also included in the cast were Allen Piper, Marjorie Beaken, Phyllis Watters, students; Mary Lou Bucciarelli, a secretary; Michael Shaffer, Patricia Gapen, psychologists; Tessie Gall, psychologist's child; Jerry Palmer, a patrolman, and Ruth Gieseke, a jail attendant.

Other students who played roles were James Kells, court attendant; George Bebin, Mrs. Call's lawyer; Edna Nicholson, John Osborne, Harold Person, Virginia Knouse, witnesses, and Joseph Malik, a cab driver. Two freshmen, Paul Birchak and Patrick Arbore, enacted parts of the children.

The play centers about Tammy Tyree, a girl who lives on her shanty boat, "Ellen B." Tammy desires to go to college to become more of a lady so that she might be able to captivate Pete Brent, her own true love. Tammy has trouble getting a place to stay since she isn't permitted to live on the Ellen B. alone. Although she goes to jail once, the ending to the play is a happy one. Adding to the hilariousness of the plot were the characters of Mrs. Call and Tammy's grandfather.

Mr. Harry Craig served as faculty coach to the production.

MARSHA FIORINI. Diane Dunhoff and Virginia Thomas are thoroughly overcome with the build of Robert Katana in the Junior Class production.

INTRODUCING THOMAS Cirucci to Thomas Hinger and Lynne Vechter finds Myra Lynch in an informal get-together during a dress rehearsal.

Student Service personnel, drawn from the sophomore, junior and senior classes operating under the direction of Mr. William E. Yates, faculty adivser, maintained order in the corridors.

Duties performed by the Student Service included the following: patrolling halls, guiding visitors on tours of the high school, opening stairwell doors before change of classes and turning off hall lights while classes were in session.

Joanne Guskiewicz, president; Diane Bumar, vice-president; Robert Griffin, Student Council representative; and Lynne Dibert, secretary-treasurer, were officers elected during the first month of school.

Although formal meetings were unnecessary, the 56 members of Student Service discussed needed repairs with their sponsor. The administration appreciated suggestions for school improvements made by students in this organization.

"BE CERTAIN you return the hall pass," warn hall monitors Georgia Roby and Weldon Sipe to Phyllis Cardelli.

Enthusiasts Render Service By Publicizing Activities, Enforcing Regulations

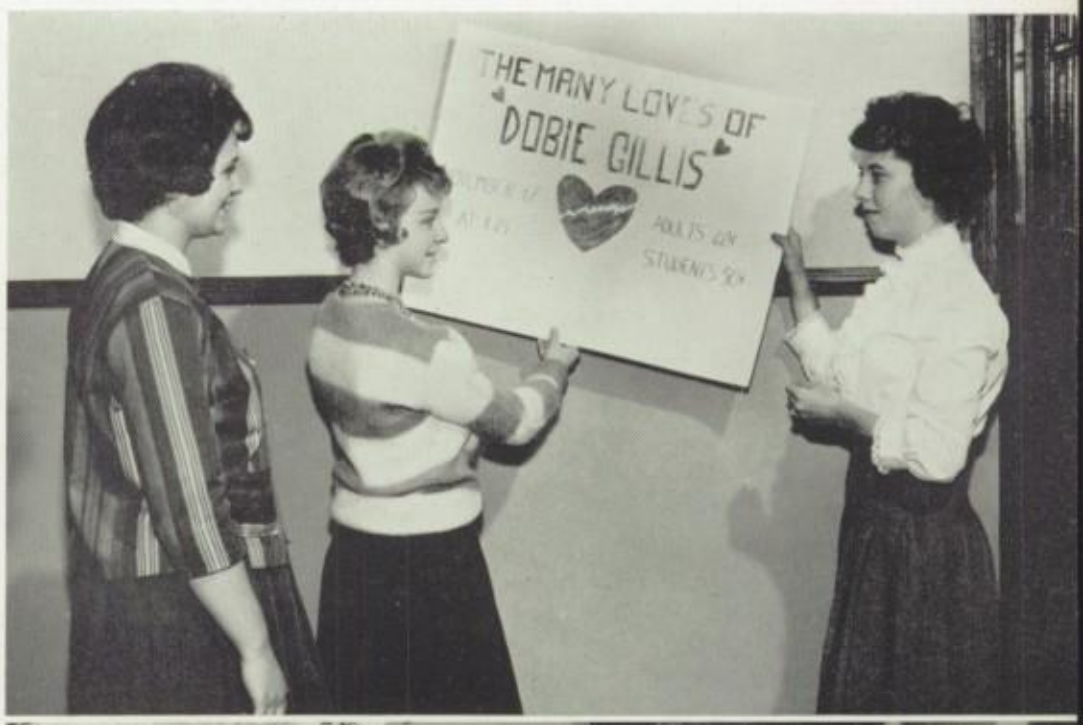
"All the way, Wildcats," "Sadie Hawkins Dance next Saturday" and "Welcome, Parents" are only a few of the greetings which appeared in the home rooms and corridors with the occurrance of each school activity.

The signs posted throughout the school were the results of the imagination and creative efforts of the 66 members of the Poster Club. This group also prepared posters which were placed in local store windows to arouse community interest in school functions.

On Awards Day, letters were awarded to those students who compiled nine points. They could earn one point by making ten small posters for the home rooms or by making one of the large posters which merited one point each.

The members elected Judy Susa, president; Patricia Gapen, vice-president; Patricia Clark, secretary-treasurer; and Bertha Harshell, Student Council representative.

PUBLICIZING FUTURE events for student interest are Poster Club members Gladys Leone, Constance Ashley and Ruth Hunter.



As the announcement came over the broadcast system, 37 students hurried to room 118 to obtain the latest edition of the High Post, the student newspaper.

These were the High Post representatives elected by their respective home rooms. Twelve times a year, the members assembled to obtain the papers for distribution to their eager classmates at dismissal.

At the beginning of the school term the work of the representatives helped staff members to present an entertaining program and to obtain the quota for publication sales. These industrious students also collected subscription payments each semester. As a fitting climax, representatives distributed yearbooks to their anxious classmen on the last day of school.

JACK MOBERG, Thomas Horwat, Margaret Gibson and Gerald Kostley prepare High Post lists before home room distribution.

"THIS IS the proper method of filing a book," explains Amy Fowler to fellow librarians Joanne Seminsky and Carol Smail.

Service Groups

Quick service, a pleasant smile and a genuine desire to be of aid were the chief attributes of the 16 librarians as they responded to the student's plea for help.

Dusting books and shelves, keeping the card catalogue up to date and helping at the checking desk were some general duties performed by the girls. They also processed new material, repaired old books and helped keep the periodicals in good order.

The girls performed these tasks several periods each week, helping to relieve the duties of Mrs. Ruth Weisner, head librarian, during her initial year as a faculty member at Latrobe.

Mrs. Weisner stated, "These girls serving as student librarians are performing a beneficial service not only for me, the faculty and the entire student body, they are also greatly helping themselves by gaining experience in this work."

Carrying a red flag which warned, "Please Stop," the Safety Patrol member assumed his position at the busy school intersection, assisting both pedestrian and motorist to reach his destination safely.

Comprised of 13 boys, this indispensable organization was under the leadership of co-captains Ronald Benford and Paul Vilk. Mr. Frederick Halsall, adviser, and Mr. Earl Karasack, assistant adviser, supervised the group.

Four times a day, rain or shine, the members reported to their assigned posts before the bell rang. The volunteers assisted the lady patrolmen in performing essential duties. Patrol boys also directed traffic and parking at football games.

The American Automobile Association awarded each four-year member a gold medal. Every month the members received free thirty-day movie passes. Through the dependable and efficient services of these boys, the well-being of both motorist and pedestrian was safeguarded from traffic hazards.

PREPARING TO execute their daily duties as members of the Safety Patrol are William Schlosser and Ronald Benford.

At the first shrill wail of the school fire alarm, 20 willing volunteers sprang quickly into action.

These active students comprised the Fire Patrol. They busily helped conduct drills as required by the state and mastered the use of equipment in case of an actual emergency.

Meeting in the auditorium at the first sign of imaginary smoke, the floor leaders, William Smithly, Bruce Robbins, Thomas O'Rourke, Gerald Murphy and Head Patroler David Ayers, swiftly took charge of the floors and doors.

Other members decided the shortest route to transport equipment to the practice blaze. All the necessary implements were carried swiftly to the disaster area. They checked individual rooms for unauthorized persons, opened doors and windows and inspected for flames within the electrical system. The Fire Patrol was organized by Mr. Robert Cook in 1948.

Members Represent Organizations, Classes In Outstanding Student Council Group

Latrobe High School students hustling behind the concession stand at Memorial Stadium amidst the throng of spectators trying to accommodate the crowd is a familiar scene to local citizens of the community. These pupils constitute a portion of the 54 members of the Student Council, one of the school's most active service organizations.

One representive from every home room, club, organization, and other students willing to render their service to the school comprise the membership of the Council.

The main purposes of the association are to promote worthy school activities, provide opportunities for student co-operation and participation and to develop a greater responsibility for law and order in the system.

Officers for the 1961-1962 term were Charles Shearer, president; Jane Blank, vice-president; Weldon Sipe, secretary, and Diane Bumar, treasurer.

Approximately 104 paintings, whose subject matter and technique range from the purely academic to the complete abstract, adorn the halls of

LHS. These pictures are the most outstanding achievement of the group. Well-known newspapers and television networks have recognized this accomplishment. The student-selected and purchased woks are a complete cross section of art in western Pennsylvania covering the period of the previous 26 years.

John Kane, Roy Hilton, Fredrick Franck, Aleta Cornelius, Ottmar Von Fueher and Raymond Simboli are a few of the distinguished artists of the tri-state area whose works appear in the collection. "The Steele Farm" by Mr. Kane, which hung above the Council-operated Lost and Found, is estimated as the most valuable painting.

Mr. James R. Beatty, faculty adviser, the Council officers and members of the One Hundred Friends of Art attended the annual Carnegie Museum exhibit to select the canvases which were displayed in the art assembly. Local citizen Mr. Victor B. Stader transported the paintings from Pittsburgh and returned them at his own expense as a public service.

Ticket, decoration and refreshment arrangements for the two Council-sponsored dances, "Autumn Stag" and the "Sadie Hawkins," was another project undertaken by the group. Red paper Christmas trees constructed by the decorating committee decked the auditorium during the Yuletide season.

The organization operated chiefly in committees. It met twice monthly in a room on the lower floor of the building constructed and decorated in 1946 for such a purpose. The above was supplemented by meetings that were held after the school day in order to complete or discuss a subject.

Mr. Beatty has been faculty adviser to the Council 31 of the 42 years the school organization has existed at Latrobe High.

Forensics

Participation In Debates, Orations Aid Students In Curricular Endeavors

NEGATIVE DEBATERS of Thomas Haswell and Fred Fletcher hold a preliminary session with the affirmative team of Russell Walker and Virginia Dovey.

With the advent of spring, forensics took the spotlight at Latrobe High School, and students possessing speaking ability had an opportunity to display their talents in the three annual contests.

In the Oratorical Contest sponsored by the Rotary Club, Lee Anne Goodman won first place with her oration, "A New Birth of Freedom." Ending her speech, she stated, "Once again Americans will meet the challenge. Our children will look back upon us and say, 'We are the product of a stalwart generation—a generation that gave freedom a new birth—that made the light of a new day.'"

Receiving second honors was Regina Maher with her presentation, "A Day of Reckoning." Warning Americans against the dangers of collectivism, she asserted, "Collectivism in the form of the welfare state is insidious! It hides easily behind appeals for humanitarian reliefs. It flows from the lips of our politicians when they say, 'Let's help these poor unfortunates.'"

Nancy Campbell, third place winner, closed her oration, "Patriotism—A Thing of the Past?", with this cautioning: "The greatest gift given to me at my birth was a heritage of freedom. I was born free. Will my children, your children, and our children's children be able to make this same statement in future years?"

Honorable mention was awarded to Richard Graham for his delivery, "Licensed Murder." He cautioned motorists by asking, "How many were injured through a driver's assumption that because he had a green light, no one was going to cross the street directly in his path? How many?—I'll tell you. The figure came to well over a quarter of a million people. Yes, all those injuries because someone assumed too much!"

Other seniors who displayed their abilities by competing in the finals were Linda Kennedy, Michael Rizzo, Phyllis Watters and Robert Pochet.

"Resolved: The Federal government should equalize education opportunities by means of grants to the state for public elementary and secondary education" was the topic of the annual Ruth Robb Debate. Taking the laurels this year was the affirmative team of Virginia Dovey and Russell Walker. Comprising the negative team were Fred Fletcher and Thomas Haswell.

The winning couple cited the need for federal aid by stressing the poorer states of the union can't provide the type of education needed in today's world, and in the world-wide struggle with communism this nation can't afford to waste brain power. Federal aid would help make possible the well-trained people our society demands, was the contention of the debators.

In presenting the negative side, Fletcher and Haswell said the need for aid is exaggerated, and cited the danger of federal control as the main argument against national aid to education. The team also questioned the constitutionality of such a program. In addition, federal aid would reward poor schools with cash, leading people of local areas to do less for themselves and to depend on the federal government to carry the load.

In rebuttal, Dovey and Walker said the danger of federal control can be eliminated, and in dealing with the constitutionality of the concept, the debators quoted financial statements concerning taxing for the general welfare which federal aid to education would promote.

The topic of discussion in the Kiwanis Club Extemporaneous Speaking Contest was "Urbanization and Its Effects on Society." The grand prize was awarded to Robert Pochet, senior, for his presentation. Winners in each class were Russell Walker, junior; Virginia Dovey, sophomore, and Pamela Saxman, freshman. Other semi-finalists participating in the contest were Thomas Baybrook, Clifford Evans, Judy Campbell and Kenneth Poorman.

These three major contests, held during the month of March, are sponsored by local service organizations to promote an interest in public speaking. Excluding the orations in which participation is limited to seniors, the contests are open to members of all classes.

CLASS EXTEMP winners Virginia Dovey, Russell Walker and Pamela Saxman share dignity and honor with the school winner Robert Pochet.

Members Of Honorary Groups Show Leadership Ability, Journalistic Flair

With the blare of a trumpet and the beat of a drum, the Dance Band entertained the students of Latrobe High School. This organization of 16 boys of the Music Department attempted to bring "big band" music back into the hearts of the listeners.

Though the band supplied the entertainment at the Sadie Hawkins Dance and at the Extemporaneous Speaking Contest, its performances were not confined to the school. The boys played at several youth club dances and participated in the Dance Band Festival. The band is under the direction of Mr. Gary Couch.

Another musical organization was the Dixieland Band. Mr. Robert Cook, the band director, stated that these six boys with the Dixie beat were Latrobe High School's ambassadors of good will, for they brought much joy not only to the students but also to members of numerous churches and social clubs in the community.

QUILL AND Scroll officers Lee Anne Goodman and Regina Maher prepare a display prior to the initiation assembly.

Every aspiring journalism student strove to incorporate Initiative, Opportunity, Leadership, Loyalty, Enlightenment, Friendship and Truth into his life and his writings in an effort to meet the qualifications for Quill and Scroll membership.

The student must rank in the upper third of his class and have contributed three hundred column inches to a school publication or be a two year member of the business or advertising staffs to gain admittance to the society.

The members elected Regina Maher, president; Lee Anne Goodman, secretary; Kathleen Kuhns, correspondence secretary; Roseann Janesko, program chairman; Linda Kennedy and Ellen Hamill, project chairmen. Mr. William Couchenour directed the organization in its activities.

Initiation of new members took place in an assembly during the spring of the school year.

High scholastic standards, strong student leadership, good character and sportsmanship, participation in classroom and extra-curricular activities are the attributes which make a candidate eligible for membership in the National Honor Society.

President of the society was Gerald Jim, while Roy Stehle served as vice-president. The secretary was Joanne Rose; Patricia Clarke, treasurer; Dianne DeFlavio was Student Council representative. Other members included were William Roberts, Robert Pochet and Michael Rizzo.

Rank in the upper fourth of the class is a requirement for membership. Fifteen per cent of the seniors and five per cent of the Junior Class were elected.

Concluding the year new members were initiated in a special ceremony and a banquet held for both the Student Council and the National Honor Society.

To supplement the classroom instruction was the aim and purpose of the Commercial Club.

Kathleen Kuhns presided over the organization for the second year. Rita Bravis acted as vice-president. Performing as secretary was Nancy Harr, while Mary Lou Bucciarelli served as treasurer. Diane Graham represented the group on the Student Council during the year.

The establishment of the club provided the opportunity for students to become better acquainted with the office procedures they will encounter. Another goal for the group was to help members make the necessary adjustments from the classroom to the office.

The organization heard guest speakers from local industries at their monthly meetings. A tour of one of the offices in town taught the students many fundamentals they will use in their future life and interests.

Membership was confined to junior and senior girls in the Commercial course. Miss Florence Gill, Commercial teacher, served as adviser to the club.

USHERS DONNA Blaine, Gladys Leone and Gertrude Stefanko take time out preceding a class play to glance at the programs.

"This way, please," was the phrase commonly heard as the girls in white ushered the audience to their seats. These members rendered their services at numerous scholastic, athletic and social events of the year.

Twenty-five members willingly offered their time at the concerts, plays, forensic contests and football games. Donna Blaine, head usher for the year, supervised the activities on the main floor. In charge of the seating in the balcony was Gertrude Stefanko.

To merit a letter on Awards Day at the close of the year, ushers were required to meet specific qualifications. These included promptness, good service rendered and no more than two absences for each of two years of service.

Miss Catherine Netzlof, adviser, expressed her thoughts in these words, "I feel that the Ushers' Club is an organization based on the co-operation, willingness and promptness of the girls."

As the familiar B.C.C. chimes rang throughout the home rooms, the broadcasting staff presented the latest in sports, activities and announcements to the pupils.

Under the supervision of Miss Mary Louise McBride, the broadcasting classes carried on their activities. Broadcasting II presented the bi-weekly productions. Broadcasting I learned all the fundamentals of the organization.

Members of WTRA lectured to the class on all the aspects of broadcasting. After these presentations, the class journeyed to the studio and made a realistic broadcast.

Patricia Gapen, news editor; Diane DeFlavio, script editor; Thomas Baybrook, sports editor; John Charlesworth, technician; Gertrude Stefanko, productions manager, assisted by 16 juniors and seniors served as this year's staff. Their largest presentation of the year was "Reindeer On the Roof," the annual Christmas play.

"Attention" was the command heard more than once by the 86 participants of the 1961-1962 edition of the Wildcat marching band as they took part in many school and civic affairs.

Among the many achievements of this organization was the appointment to the national yearbook First Chair of America, which honors approximately 200 outstanding bands in the United States.

Precision marching and musical selections entertained spectators at the half time shows for the nine football games. For the first time in the school's history, Latrobe High selected a field majorette. Receiving this honor was junior, Helen Van Norden.

Leading the snappy group of 14 majorette regulars was Linda Sandacz. The group also took part in the Halloween and Veterans' Day parades.

Mr. Gary Couch assumed the position of music department head after the departure of Mr. Ronald Shurie early in the school year. The 31 members of the orchestra under the direction of Mr. Eugene Pecarrero, grade school music teacher, rendered service by playing for assemblies, plays and forensic contests.

Joanne Rose, president; William Roberts, vice-president; Anthony Vittone, secretary; Virginia Dovey, librarian, were the orchestra officers.

Vocal Music

"Do, re, mi," the notes of the scale faithfully practiced by enthusiastic chorus members helped them to improve their vocal ability and the vocal music department throughout the year.

Containing 85 freshmen, Girls' Chorus I prepared those who aspire to participate in Girls' Chorus II next year. Kathleen Clarke, Kathleen Guzik and Linda Batten were joint accompanists.

One main function of Boys' Chorus I, composed of 46 boys, was to entertain the incoming freshmen on Moving-Up Day. Joanne Rose played the piano accompaniment. Also included in their performances was the Spring Concert.

Sophomore, junior and senior songstresses comprising Girls' Chorus II were involved in such activities as Christmas caroling in the halls and performing in the Aspinwall Exchange Assembly. The group was accompanied by Cheryl Helfferich.

Specifically designated juniors and seniors from Girls' Chorus II and upperclass boy vocalists composed the membership of Mixed Chorus, accompanied by Myra Lynch.

Accomplished vocalists from the senior choruses comprised the octet whose function was to lead the assembly hymns.

Relatively new this year were the boys' and girls' barbershop quartets who performed for various service organizations. The Vocal Concert, March 23, highlighted the year for the Vocal Music Department.

"When can you come again?"

This is a question which many of the 90 Readers' Group members heard as she closed her books and prepared to leave the children's ward of Latrobe Hospital.

The girls upheld their motto, "Servimus" or "We serve" each Saturday morning at the hospital. They also aided in the Muscular Dystrophy Drive and assisted those requiring charitable help in their communities and outlying districts.

Serving as officers of this organization were Karen Juhasz, president; Patricia Clarke, vice-president; Katherine McCarthy, secretary; Julia Nicolazzo, treasurer; Virginia Pollins, Student Council representative. The club was organized for girls interested in nursing but grew to include any girl interested in the general benefit of mankind.

Readers' Club Gains Satisfaction By Performing Services For Hospitalized Children

As the All Class play, "The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis," ended, the Stage Crew completed the weeks of work and preparation for their first big assignment of the year.

The co-sponsors of the group, Mr. Frederick Halsall and Mr. William Yates, appointed this team of boys at the beginning of the school year. The crew includes Theodore Danko, David Peters, James Orzehowski, Ronald Benford, Charles Prodin, Ernest Griffin, Gilbert Gleckl and Ronald Harr, head senior manager.

During the course of all the stage productions, the tasks of these boys were to make certain that all microphones were functioning properly, to provide adequate lighting and to open the curtains.

"This is one of the best service groups we have in this school and receives very little recognition," added Mr. Yates.

"Bonjour" and "Buenos Dias" were familiar greetings heard at the MLC Mardi Gras or regular meetings. Membership was comprised of juniors and seniors taking French or Spanish.

Under the leadership of Gerald Jim as president, the club sponsored entertaining and educational activities throughout the year. Other officers were vice-president, Clifford Evans; secretary, Rebecca Fowler; treasurer, Nancy Campbell; Student Council representative, Katherine McCarthy.

January saw the organization at Lincoln Lanes for their annual bowling tournament. Prizes were awarded to high scorer of girls and boys and low scorer of the girls.

Crowning the queen and king of the Mardi Gras was the highlight of this featured event. Faculty adviser to the Modern Language Club was Mrs. Nancy Frye, French I, II and Spanish II teacher.

"YEA-A-A-A TEAM"

Such retrains were often heard by the spectators attending the LHS athletic games during the 1961-1962 sports season. The Wildcat varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders led student cheering sections in such chants and school yells.

During the summer months the fifteen girls practiced three times weekly trying to accomplish uniformity of motion, agility and crowd appeal.

Diane DeFlavio, head; Connie Ashley, co-head; Elaine O'Rourke, Phyllis Watters, Mary Lou Atkinson, Linda Domenic, Karen Juhasz and Merrily Ryder comprised this year's varsity squad. Senior Bruce Immel was mascot. Members of the junior varsity squad were Kathleen Sarp, Jeanne DeFlavio, Donna Callabrace, Mary Ann Westfall, Patricia Cline, Judith Giannini, Kathleen Hughes and Katherine Guzik.

Approximately 123 students participated in the Biology Club thus improving their knowledge of the biological science through field trips, research projects and meetings of general scientific interest.

Miss Virginia Daniels sponsored the club during its two-year existence. It is in affiliation with the national Future Scientists of America organization. Presiding at club meetings and acting as an ex-officio member of all committees were the responsibilities of Joyce Frederick, president.

In charge of business phases of the organization were Judith Givens, vice-president; Michaelene Ridilla, secretary; Diane Resnick, treasurer; Brian Evans, Student Council representative. Officers and chairmen of the fifteen committees comprised the executive board.

One highlight of the year was a field trip to Adam's Falls conducted by a state forester. Mr. William Paxton previously addressed the club concerning the method of preparation and conduct for a field trip.

In its third year of existence, Mu Alpha Theta, a national high school and junior college mathematics club, confronted its carefully selected members with an introduction to various phases of higher mathematics.

Analytical geometry, oddities in math, slide rule usage and flash techniques were subject areas discussed at the monthly meetings. A total of nine seniors comprised the club until the installation of new junior members this spring.

William Roberts, president of the honorary math society, was responsible for club programs and activities throughout the school term. Assisting William were the following officers: Gerald Jim, vice-president; Thomas Baybrook, secretary-treasurer; Michael Rizzo, Student Council representative.

Assuming sponsorship for the organization was Miss Mary Louise McBride, Algebra II and Broadcasting I, II instructor.

Junior Classical League

To hand on the culture of the ancient Romans to the modern world and to acquaint language enthusiasts with the civilization of Greece and Rome through education trips, projects and activities, were the goals of the Junior Classical League during the school year.

Miss Adeline Reeping, adviser, sponsored the activities for the league. Aiding her were Kathy Hays, consul; Patricia Williams and Louise Fritz, pro-consuls; Joyce Frederick, scriba; James Sillaman, quaestor; David Markiewicz, explorator. Chief editor of the Torch was Angela Quatrini, assisted by Mary Ann Westfall, co-editor.

Approximately 300 students attended the annual skating party held at the Latrobe Roller Garden in late October. At this time skating performers entertained the group. Terminating the October action, the league capped a winning entry in the Halloween parade with the students depicting a "triumphal procession."

"Amicitia" or "Friendship Week," the first week of December, brought an exchange of courtesies between students and teachers. On Apple Day each teacher received an apple from one of his students. Some more ambitious pupils decorated the fruit.

A production of the play, "Latin is Fun," was presented by 30 Latineers. The play, held in February, was broadcast over the Latrobe radio station, WSHH.

Slated for March, the Latin festival brought in projects pertaining to Roman life and culture. At this time a Toga Hop was held at the Latrobe Community Club with refreshments provided by the league. A special sightseeing trip to Buhl Planetarium was also arranged. The Annual Auxilium Latinum tests were administered to students in conjunction with the festival to help students recognize their abilities.

Central Catholic High School in Pittsburgh was the site of the State Junior Classical League Convention. Myra Lynch was state scriba, Michael Lechman, historian and Helen Van Norden, substitute-at-large. The trip was made in May.

During the summer, many students plan to travel to Montana State College, Bozeman, Montana, for the 1962 National JCL Convention. The sponsors planned a trip through Yellowstone Park. The trip is set for August 5-9.

Audio visual aids such as slides, movies, tapes and records of Latin classes aided in the study. These aids helped students gain a better understanding of the language and acquainted them with the civilization of Greece and Rome.

Athletics

Participation in athletics is a privilege involving both responsibilities and rights. The athlete has responsibility to fair play, to give his best, to keep in training, to conduct himself with credit to his sport and his school. In turn he has the right to ultimate protection against injury.

The athletic program scheduled by Latrobe High School provides variety in many fields. Football, cross-country, basketball, wrestling, track, tennis and golf are offered on an interscholastic basis. These activities furnish recreation and competition as well as assistance in forming wholesome minds and bodies.

Orange & Black Gridders End Campaign With Third Straight Successful Season

Although playing a gruelling schedule, the Wildcat gridders compiled a respectable 5-4 record during the 1961 football season.

The Latrobe eleven opened the season by defeating their traditional rival, Schenley High of Pittsburgh, by a 19-7 margin. In defeating the Steel City team for the tenth straight time, the charges of Coach Charles Findley tallied scores in the first, second, third and last periods. The Wildcats next hosted the Derry Area Trojans, who were defeated by the Latrobers, 26-6. Frank Moff was the hero of the day as he returned a kickoff 88 yards for the second touchdown of the night.

Playing the Wildcats next were the Penn Hills Indians, who proved to be more than the Cats could handle as the Indians won by a 28-13 count. The Latrobe eleven's only moment of glory came when Tom O'Rourke shocked the Indians with an 88 yard kickoff return for a six-pointer.

Going into the Foothills Conference competition, the Wildcats found the Wilkinsburg Tigers outclassing them 21-0. The Tigers went on to win the Foothills Conference with an undefeated record. In the Jeannette game, the Orange and Black eleven recovered from two straight setbacks by defeating the Jayhawks, 27-6. Co-captain Joe Sprock tallied twice while Robert Katana scored once on a pass play. Tom O'Rourke capped Latrobe's scoring by going through the Jeannette line and 54 yards for a touchdown.

Latrobe visited Connellsville for their sixth game of the season. With 22 seconds remaining in the first half, the Cokers tallied on a 20-yard field goal to take a 3-0 lead. In the third quarter, the Latrobers scored when Joe Sprock fielded a Connellsville fumble on the Wildcat 45 and rambled 55 yards for a touchdown. This was the winning marker for the Orange and Black, as they came home with a 6-3 victory.

At Greensburg for their fourth conference game, the Wildcat team found the Golden Lions unhospitable as the county-seaters won 20-7. In this encounter the Greensburgers rolled up a 7-0 lead at half-time and held the advantage until the final whistle sounded.

Norwin was the Cats' next "AA" foe in the season. Returning to Memorial Stadium, the Wildcats took the measure of the Knights by a 37-19 count. Hempfield was the final opponent in the 1961 grid schedule. For the fourth time the Latrobe team went down to defeat as the Spartans won, 26-7.

At the completion of the grid campaign, monograms were awarded to 14 seniors, four juniors and one sophomore. Senior letter winners were Domenic Camerote, Gerald Jim, Theodore Katana, Frank Moff, Gerald Murphy, Thomas O'Rourke, Larry Messich, Bruce Robbins, Leonard Shamrock, Joseph Sprock, John Charlesworth, Charles White, Allen Piper and Richard Ludwig. Juniors deserving letters were John Pawlosky, Joseph Stynchula, Gary Lenz and Robert Katana. Allan Baum was the only sophomore to earn a monogram.

Three outstanding seniors won post-season honors. Co-captain Gerry Murphy, co-captain Joseph Sprock and Theodore Katana were named to the first team all-conference and all-county berths as tackle, fullback and end, respectively. Murphy was accorded additional honors when he was named Hempfield Area handed the local reserves a 31-0 defeat in the opening game on the opponent's field. In their second encounter the understudies were also held scoreless by East Huntingdon Township who recorded two tallies for 14 points.

After a slow start the Cats garnered their first victory early in October at the expense of Greensburg by a score of 19-6. Robert Guzik and Robert Ruffner combined to provide the scoring punch necessary in overcoming Jeannette 25-6. Each boy hit paydirt twice. Freshmen Gridders Gain Experience In First Year of Interscholastic Tilts FOOTBALL CANDIDATE Paul Ransel reads the latest on football, while head trainer Roy Stehle applies diathermy treatment.

While winning only two games and losing three in their first year of interscholastic football, the frosh gridders nevertheless won the big ones and should prove a valuable asset to the Orange and Black teams of the future.

Coaches James Shumaker and James Liddle kept the boys in top physical condition for the duration of the season. Commented Coach Shumaker, "The boys improved rapidly as the season progressed and gained experience in good sportsmanship."

When the frosh dropped the first two tilts in order it looked as though a poor season was ahead for them. In the first clash arch rival Derry Area stopped the yearlings cold at home by the tune of 25-7. In the next encounter the hometown fans left disappointed as East Huntingdon squeaked past the Wildkittens by a heart-breaking score of 20-19.

Extra points were all important when the frosh won their first victory by edging Hempfield 14-15 at home. Dennis Bryson highlighted the game when he carried the pigskin 97 yards to paydirt.

Neighboring Greensburg stopped the yearlings' bid for a winning season by tripping them 7-2 at their field. The Wildkittens completed the interscholastic season by beating Jeannette 6-0 at the latter's field. The individual performances of Terry Stackowicz, who scored the lone touchdown of the game, and Richard Smith, who intercepted two passes, highlighted the game.

In a post season exhibition game, the frosh surprised everyone by upsetting the sophomores by the tally of 15-7. This completed the first season high school football for the frosh.

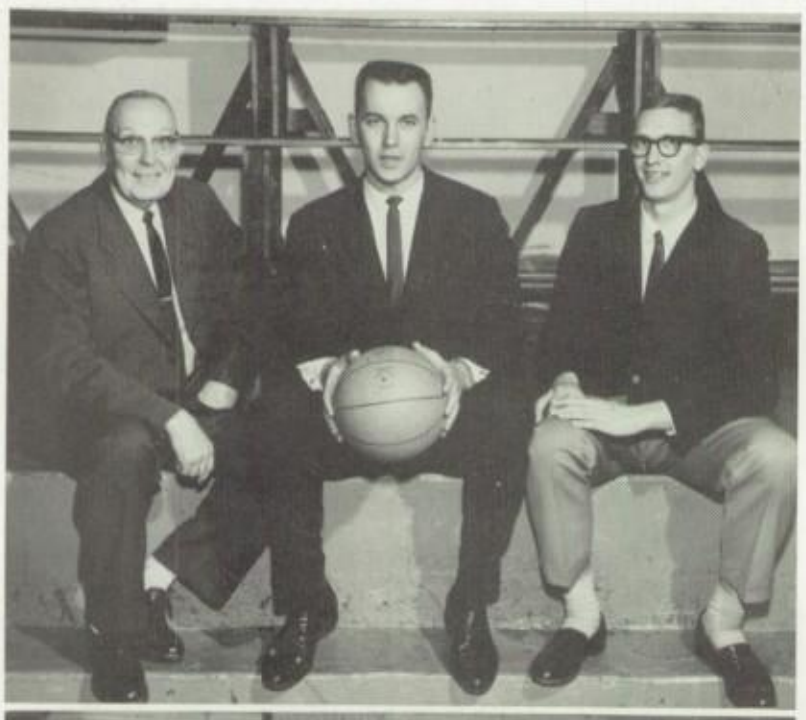
Hoopsters Have Successful Season In Section II, End Year In Second Spot

HARDWOOD COACHES Ray V. Wild, John Monchak and Charles Barr form strategy for upcoming games in the roundball season.



Under the tutelage of rookie Coach John Monchak, the Latrobe High basketballers compiled a respectable 14-10 record for the 1961-1962 season. While attaining this record, the dribblers were runnersup to Connellsville in Section II-A of the WPIAL.

The Orange and Black initiated their eight-game exhibition schedule December 1 by defeating the Scottdale five, 66-35. Showing good balance in their next two games, the Latrobe dribblers outscored Franklin Area, 48-36, and Har-Brack, 63-60.

Then, the charges of Coach Monchak suffered their first setback by losing to Penn Hills, 70-49. Rebounding from this defeat, the Latrobers traveled to Penn Joint and beat the Indians by 54-50.

The Orange and Black lost a disputed away game to Somerset, 64-58, before returning home to finish their exhibition season by playing Sewickley Township and Wilkinsburg. The locals defeated the former, 64-52, but lost to the Tigers, 76-55. The Wildcats thus ended their exhibition schedule with a 5-3 chart.

On January 2 the Wildcats opened Section II-A play by soundly defeating the Greensburg-Salem Lions, 80-48. After losing to Derry Area, 47-41, the Cat five went on to win four straight section games before bowing to the undefeated Cokers, 77-42. These wins were recorded over Norwin, Hempfield Area, Mt. Pleasant Joint and Jeannette. These victories also gave the Latrobers a 5-2 record for the first half of section play.

In the second round of play, the roundballers squeezed by Greensburg, 61-60, and again lost to Derry Area, 75-70. The Cats continued to slump by losing to Norwin, 82-47, and Hempfield Area, 63-52, in away games.

But in the Mt. Pleasant Joint game, the locals returned to winning form by outscoring the Vikings in overtime by a 58-56 count. Then the locals traveled to Jeannette to tangle with the Jayhawks. Again the Latrobe five was victorious over the Jays. This time the score was 57-49. In their last game in Section II-A competition, the Wildcats lost to the unbeaten Connellsville dribblers, 55-48. Thus, the Cats ended the section campaign with an 8-6 record, good enough for a second-place finish behind the Connellsville Cokers.

Next on the agenda for the Orange and Black was the Westmoreland County Basketball Tournament. This was the last year for the tourney because a new PIAA rule, that goes into effect during the 1962-63 campaign, limits the number of games a team can play during a season.

Latrobe drew Derry Area in the first round of the tournament. The Wildcats revenged two regular season losses by defeating the Trojans, 62-46. Moving into the second round, the LHS five found the Golden Lions of Greensburg too tough to handle as the Lions won, 62-54. This loss ended the season for the dribblers and gave them a 14-10 winning chart.

Receiving letters for their performance during the season were seniors Gary Himler, Gary Mueseler, Joseph Sinkey and Fred Steele. Thomas Haswell and Jack Wright were the juniors who earned monograms. Gary Himler and Gary Mueseler were particularly noted for their scoring ability as Himler had 340 points and Mueseler had 332 markers during Section II-A play. Thomas Haswell figured heavily in Coach Monchak's plans until Thomas was disabled early in the year because of a knee injury.

Aiding Mr. Monchak in the coaching duties were Mr. James Barr, junior varsity mentor, and Mr. Raymond V. Wild, freshman tutor. Also assisting the coach was head manager William Roberts.

The little Cats, who played their contests before each varsity encounter, finished exhibition play with a slate of 3-5.

The jayvees opened Section II play on the home court against the Greensburg reserves downing them, 57-50. However, during the rest of section play the locals could manage only one win. This came over the Jeannette team, 42-40.

Coached by Mr. Charles Barr, the squad received valuable experience preparing them for varsity competition in future years at Latrobe High.

Freshmen

Although registering a sub-par 4-12 season, the frosh cagers acquired important skills in their first season on the interscholastic hardwood.

It looked as though the yearlings would have a successful season when they downed Connellsville, 25-23, in the first encounter in a non-league game December 8. In the return match the Cokers got revenge over Coach R. V. Wild's Cats.

Handing the locals double defeats in league play were Harold, Greensburg-Salem, Derry Area and Irwin. Penn Township was twice defeated by the yearlings. Ligonier was victorious in the first match but was stopped in the return match when the Latrobe team won, 27-20.

DURING A home encounter, George Walter prepares to record a first-period pin, placing the Cats ahead.

With a final team record of nine wins and three defeats, the Wildcat matmen recorded their ninth straight victorious season and captured their seventh consecutive Westmoreland County Championship under the direction of Coach Creed Westfall.

The highlight of the season came when the matmen captured the County Championship with a total of 38 points and seven individual champions. Wildcat champs were Gerard Murphy, Richard Ludwig, Dennis Carr, George Walter, Thomas Bell, Anthony Kalokerinos and Thomas Wadsworth.

The grapplers finished third in the Section Tournament as Gerard Murphy and Richard Ludwig emerged champions. However, both boys lost in the Regional matches.

Harriers Prove Worth In Endurance Tests While Compiling Win Record

EARLY IN the race, the Latrobe High thinclads vie for front positions while contesting with harriers from Westmont.

With the final record reading four wins against two losses and a ninth place rating in the WPIAL, Coach William West's cross-country team completed a successful season last fall.

Westmont Hilltop and Ferndale were the first teams to fall before the local harriers as the Cats defeated them in the triangular meet held at Westmont. Three days later the locals traveled to Penn Hills in high spirits but were shut out as the Indians captured the first seven places before a Wildcat crossed the finish line.

With a record of 1-1, the Orange and Black ran at Uniontown and picked up their second victory of the season. Junior Charles Ronco paced the team to the victory. On October 10, the runners of Westmont Hilltop and Ferndale again fell prey to the local quintet in a triangular meet when Latrobe scored 23, Westmont Hilltop 37, and Ferndale 60.

The Wilkinsburg Tigers were the fourth cross-country team to feel the claws of the Cats. The Wildcats nailed down five of the first seven places to whip past the Tigers, 24-31, on the Schenley Park Course in Pittsburgh.

On October 24, the hill-and-dale runners finished their regular season on a sour note as the Connellsville Cokers handed the Cats their second defeat of the season. The final score was 26-29. In the 28th annual WPIAL championship race the thinclads placed 9th in a field of 20 teams. The little Wildcats finished 5th in the WPIAL junior varsity meet.

Wildcat Cindermen Apply Fundamentals In Track Meets Attempting To Gain Lead

Latrobe High's 1962 track team opened their season hosting the Penn Hills Indians on April 17.

In the first meet the locals were denied victory as the visitors outscored the Cats 70 1/6 - 56 5/6. The second dual meet with Hempfield was cancelled because of inclement skies.

Coach William West, who served his initial season as head mentor, obtained his first win at the expense of a strong Wilkinsburg squad by a total of 73-54.

On Friday, April 27, Latrobe hosted a quadrangular meet. The Cat thinclads claimed district supremacy by finishing 51 points ahead of their nearest rival, Derry Area. Scoring went as follows: Latrobe 116 1/2, Derry 65, Blairsville 20 1/2 and Ligonier 10 1/3.

Seniors Joseph Sprock and Leonard Shamrock led in the point department with 14 tallies each. Shamrock capped the low hurdles and the broad jump and ran a close second in the high hurdles. Sprock won both the shot and the javelin. He also carded a second in the discus class.

In a dual meet May 1, Latrobe defeated Derry Area at the local stadium 81 1/2 to 45 1/2.

In the annual intra-squad meet the seniors easily won, compiling 95 points. The Juniors were runners-up with 67 1/2 tallies followed by the sophomores with 47 points. The freshmen managed 15 tallies.

IN PREPARATION for the first track meet of the season, Donald Loughner gives fellow runners the proper pole vault hold.

COACHES WILLIAM West, John Charlesworth and James Liddle prepare the six returning lettermen for a dual encounter.

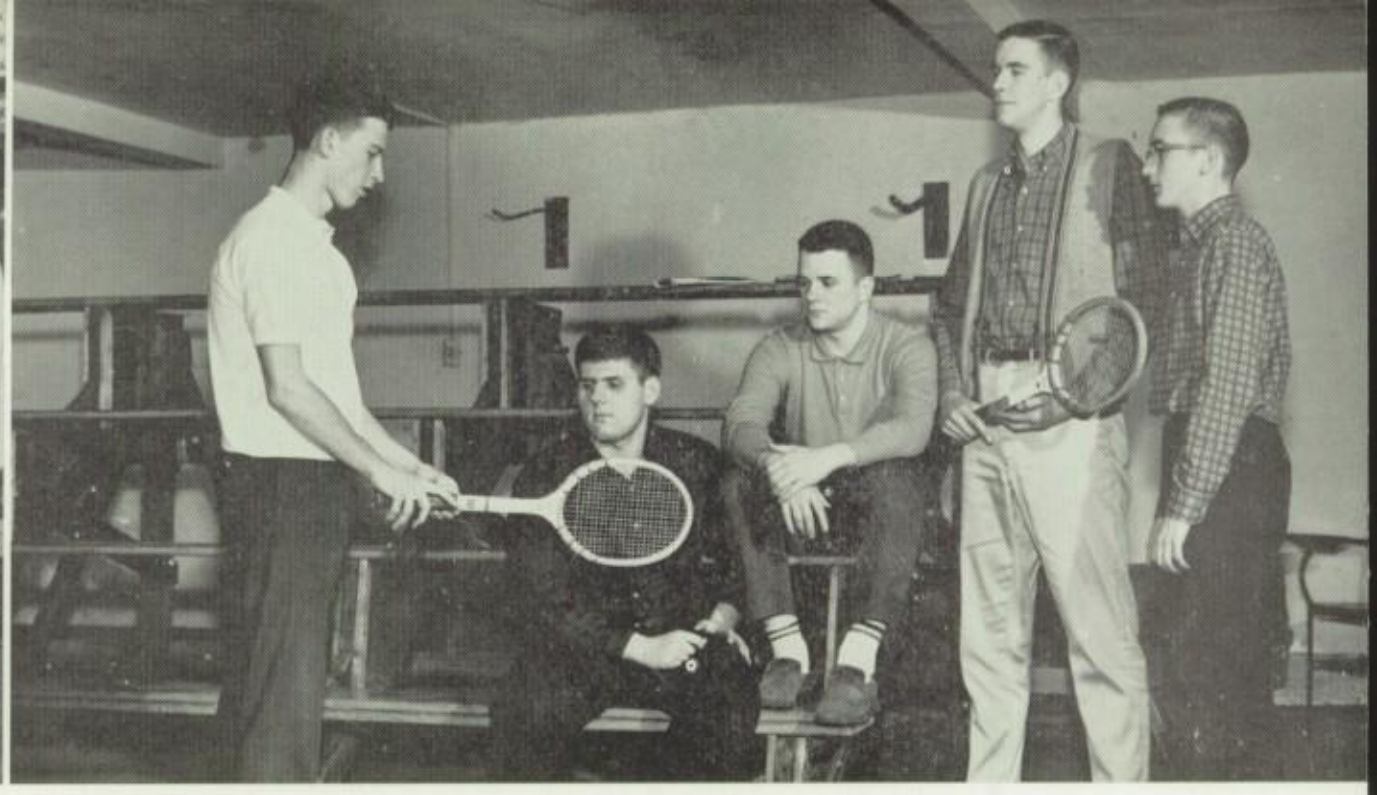
FRED STEELE, Howard Baybrook and Jack Townsend talk over WPIAL tennis standings.



HOWARD BAYBROOK illustrates for co-netters George Rise, Clifford Evans, Fred Steele and Jack Townsend his back hand swing before going to the tennis courts for the first home match of the spring sport season.

Tennis

At the completion of Section III play, the Wildcat net team, coached by Mr. Earl Karasack, showed a fine record for the 1962 campaign.

With practice beginning in the middle of March, the tennis team diligently practiced for the approaching season. Fourteen boys initially tried out for the team, with eight finally chosen to comprise the varsity squad. Picked to carry the Orange and Black colors into the campaign were seniors Fred Steele and Howard Baybrook, juniors George Rise, Jack Townsend, Clifford Evans and Keith Biller. Also on the team were sophomore William Horner and freshman Shane Montjar.

After having an exhibition match against Westmont High canceled, the Wildcats entered section competition with a 4-1 decision over Greensburg.

Gaining letters at the close of the season were Fred Steele, Howard Baybrook, George Rise, Jack Townsend and Clifford Evans. This was Mr. Karasack's fifth year as coach.

Golf

Under the direction of Mr. Robert Cook, the local golfers enjoyed a successful season, keeping Latrobe High one of the powers in Section IV competition. Returning to the Wildcat line-up were four senior lettermen. They were Bill Roberts, Bruce Immel, Joseph Sinkey and James Williams.

Comprising the remainder of the squad were juniors John Jacobs and Louis Pevarnik, sophomores John Erney, David Jacobs and Lawrence Campbell, while Thomas Williams, John Henderson and Thomas Upholster were the freshmen on the team. The underclassmen on the squad received much experience and training to become an asset in the future.

In a match with Greensburg April 17, the Wildcats were victorious by the score of 10½ to 5½ at the Mt. Odin Country Club. Hempfield fell victim to the locals the following day at the same course by the score of 11½ to 4½. Last year's Section IV champions, Jeannette, were upset 11½ to 4½ on April 24 in a home match.

GOLF

Seated: Erney, Henderson, Sulkey, Campbell, Williams, T.

Standing: Roberts, Immel, Ridilla, J., Pevarnik, Ridilla, R., Jacobs, Upholster, Williams, J., Sinkey.

GOLFERS BRUCE Immel and Joseph Sinkey confirm James Williams' driving form.

HOME ROOM BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS

Seated: Sandacz, Rose, Ryder, Salandro.

Standing: Sickenberger, Robl, Schmucker, Stepanic.

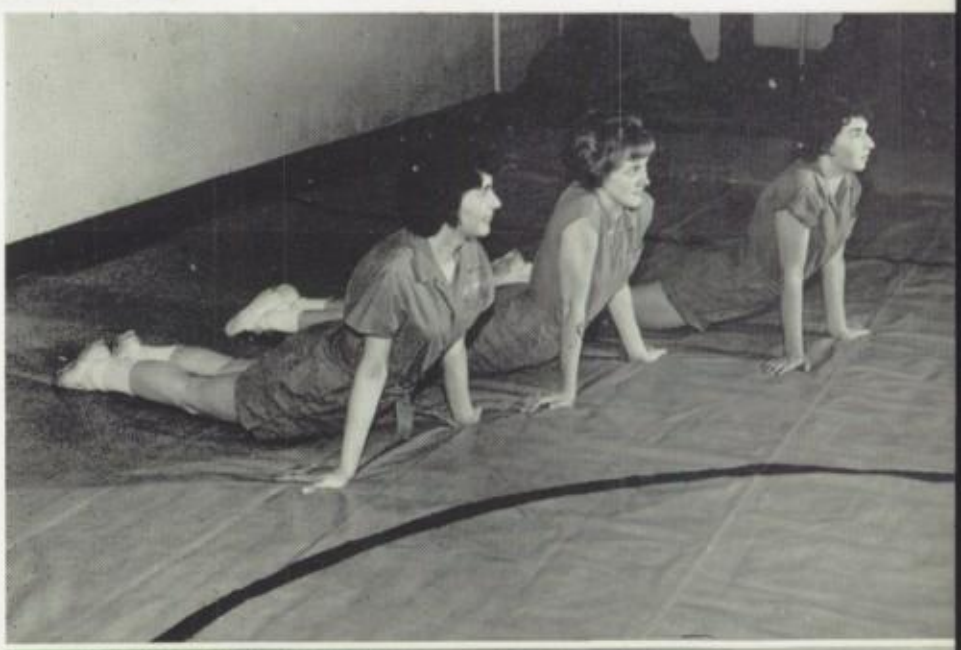
Intramural

With the sound of the referee's whistle the first of the girls' intramural sports, basketball, begins in early spring.

Girls desiring to participate in this event form home room teams. A schedule is devised. The home room teams vie for honors in their particular class. Class finalists compete to receive a pendant that will be placed in their home room for the duration of their championship title. This year senior home room 102 emerged victorious.

Soon after the close of the basketball tourney, the volleyball season begins. This time volunteers in the various gym classes vie for the title. Just as in basketball, the games are held after school in the gymnasium. Winning semi-finals and finals were the senior champions from the second period Tuesday gym class.

"I JUST can't touch my toes," cries Jane Mailey as Kathleen Hanna and Carolyn Clemens coach her on doing sit-ups.



LOSING A relay finds Mary Lou Bucciarelli, Linda Sandacz and Andrea Herrholtz doing the seal walk.

VOLLEYBALL CHAMPIONS

Seated: Rose, Eslyn, Kennedy, Fowler, Watters, Guskiewicz.

Standing: Noel, Gieseke, Waldron, Blaine, Morley, Maher, Leone, Uphalster, Krinock, Mastrorocco.

Memories

KATHLEEN KEYS, John Demyanovich and Cathy Campbell reminisce about stadium practices and formations with Charles Person and Carol Keys.

JOYCE FREDERICK comments on an amusing incident that occurred in biology, while Harold Andrews and Joseph Sartoris give a hearty burst of laughter.

WAITING TO receive Latrobeans, concluding the school term, proves to be anticipating moments for Kathleen Steele, Jane Mailey, William Owens, Barbara Hamilton and David Jacobs.

JEAN UNDERWOOD, Nancy Haswell, James Maher and Jon Erney remark about the strangeness in returning books to teachers when it seems that September was yesterday.

Determination Yields Success...

Looking back over the long months of hard work and hours of time, the editors of the 1962 Latrobean extend grateful acknowledgment to all who either directly or indirectly aided in this publication.

Diligent efforts on the part of the editorial, business and advertising staffs has given you this record of the events of the school year. We hope that you will reminisce with this annual, and with satisfaction remember the carefree days of your life and cherish these thoughts so that tomorrow you may have the memories of today.

Congratulations '62!

It is with pride and pleasure we welcome this year's graduates to the ranks of active citizens. We need your vigorous strength and alert minds to share in keeping our community vital and progressive. It is important to our nation that we do this, for each community is really the heart of America. If one area falters, we all lose. Your acceptance of responsible citizenship is essential to maintain the shining principles of freedom and liberty that have fired the minds of thinking men for centuries.
